INTRODUCTION

Death certificates and obituaries have been helpful to me in my own genealogical research, and the purpose of this volume is to make information on Grundy County deaths readily available to other researchers.

Death records were not kept in Tennessee counties until 1908. The form used to record death information from 1908 through 1912 was not very comprehensive. In 1912, the first registration law expired. For the year of 1913, death records were not kept. Then, in 1914, a new and improved death registration law was passed, providing for far more information to be recorded.

For an example of the form used to record deaths from 1908 to 1912, see page iii. For an example of the form used from 1914 through 1925, see page iv. This same basic form is still being used to record deaths in Tennessee today.

Obviously, the death records in this book start with 1908 because those are the earliest available records. They end in 1925 because after that year, all death records for Tennessee are filed by date, and it is not possible to find the Grundy County records grouped together as they are from 1908 through 1925.

The original death records are stored at the Tennessee State Library and Archives in Nashville. The Archives has microfilmed these records and made them available for sale. Annual alphabetical indexes to all Tennessee death records (all counties combined) are also available on microfilm. Copies of individual records are available at this time for $4 each from the Archives.

These records are useful primarily to genealogists, with their wonderful data about place and date of birth and parents' names for each deceased individual. They can also be found very useful to historians in many areas, for the medical and sociological data recorded on the certificates. The information in this volume is available in an ASCII data-base to anyone who wishes to use it for further computer-assisted analysis. Contact the author for access to these files.

Of necessity, only an abstract of the data contained in each death record has been provided in this volume. Researchers should note that further details about the deceased's illness, the doctor and undertaker's names, the exact date of birth and occasionally other information may be found by consulting the original.

Information is only as good as the person giving it, and even then may be made erroneous by a poor clerk. These death certificates were written out primarily by doctors and undertakers. They presumably obtained their information from the family of the deceased. In times of bereavement, family members may give incorrect or incomplete information. Misspellings are frequent, and most have been transcribed verbatim for this publication. Only obvious spelling errors have been corrected during the transcription. A blank field on this print-out means that the original was also blank.

The first part of the report deals with the general situation in the country at the end of the war. It describes the economic and social conditions, the state of the economy, and the impact of the war on the population.

The second part of the report discusses the political situation and the role of the government. It examines the policies of the government and the impact of the war on the political system.

The third part of the report focuses on the economic situation and the impact of the war on the economy. It analyzes the production and distribution of goods and services, and the impact of the war on the labor market.

The fourth part of the report discusses the social situation and the impact of the war on the population. It examines the impact of the war on the family, the education system, and the health care system.

The fifth part of the report discusses the international situation and the impact of the war on the world. It examines the impact of the war on the international economy and the international political system.

The sixth part of the report discusses the future of the country and the impact of the war on the future. It examines the impact of the war on the future of the country and the future of the world.

The seventh part of the report discusses the impact of the war on the future of the world. It examines the impact of the war on the future of the world and the future of the human race.

The eighth part of the report discusses the impact of the war on the future of the human race. It examines the impact of the war on the future of the human race and the future of the world.

I cannot close without mentioning poor old Joseph Siegler, the clerk in the 4th District who recorded many of the 1908-1912 certificates. His handwriting was awful, but his spelling was even worse. In many cases, it was impossible to tell March from May or Oct. from Sept. The frustrations of transcribing his certificates were alleviated somewhat by the humor provided. My favorite was the person who died of "New Money Fever". Another man had worked as an "Engine Neer on R.R.". Some people died of "miner getus" (meningitis?), but others were just "old and wour oute", according to Siegler.

Tribute must also be paid to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Norvell, undertakers in Tracy City. They apparently took the recording of death certificates seriously, and it is due to their efforts that much of the information in this book was ever written down. Some independent people in rural Tennessee even today resist state government intrusions on their lives, and in the early 20th century it must have been especially difficult to gain the cooperation of some bereaved family members for completing these forms. The poor transportation and communication systems of the day added to the difficulties.

The obituaries in this volume came mainly from a booklet published by Ike Woodard, Tracy City newspaper editor, in 1911. Although I had access only to a re-typed copy of this information, it was apparently compiled from back issues of the Tracy City News and its successor Mrs. Grundy. In addition to reprinting that information here, I also searched the few available scattered issues of the Tracy City News and its competitors, The Mountain Herald, the Grundy County Times and the Cumberland Outlook, for additional death notices from 1911-1914.

In the process of working on this and other books about Grundy County, I have compiled extensive files of material on the families of the area. I welcome any correspondence and will gladly share information. Persons interested in hiring professional genealogical research may also inquire about my rates and services.

Remember the State Good Meeting in Nashville the part of this month.

The cool weather this week made the poor editor feel like slipping south.

The weather of Monday and Tuesday morning made the thermometer register all around zero.

Fire recently destroyed the plant of Thos. J. Edison. The loss was up into the millions with one million insurance.

Do not think for one minute that we are knocking the town when we are reciting the sermons. We are only bringing the points to view that need attention.

We would spin you off a few rhymes, a poem or two and some poetry but with due reverence to the poets and writers passed to the beyond, we do not wish to disturb them from their peaceful slumbers.

Dancing—well, we think there could be found a more profitable occupation or exercise. The "dish-rag," the "tab-rub," the "ironing-board," also "wood-chop" and many other profitable exercises could be mentioned.

Jasper must have a good fight against newspapers. Fire last Sunday week destroyed the plant of the Marion County Herald successor to the Statesman-Democrat which was only a short time ago burned out. Together with the Herald office two other buildings were destroyed. We are glad to hear of Editor McKinney's misfortune.

DEATH AND BIRTH REGISTRATION LAW.

It is not very often that Mr.
Ernest Norvell gets an indictment, but at the last term of court he got it in the neck.

Why? Because he wanted to test the validity of the death registration certificate law. So, this is the reason Mr. Norvell let himself be indicted and we hope for him a full realization of his expectations and hope he may be successful in his undertakings to knock out the law requiring this.

The law is altogether too hard on the undertakers and works a hardship upon all concerned as well as an expense.

Mr. Norvell and his company are our local undertakers and to get a certificate many times works a hardship and an expense. For instance, Tracy City is a part of two districts, the railroad being the line between the two districts. A person dying on the southside of the railroad causes the undertaker to have to go some 5 or 6 miles to get a certificate before he can remove or prepare the body for burial. So you can see the trouble and expense the law causes.

This law as we see it should be knocked out or changed so as to make the securing of these certificates more easier so as to work any unnecessary expense.

Mr. Norvell, together with the Tennessee Undertakers' Association are going to try to get the next legislature to knock it, and we would advise our district floater and senator to co-operate with them in this matter.

The snow that fell here Sunday night reached a depth of about 4 inches and most of it is still with us.

Your wife selects a piece of cloth she first makes sure that it will serve the purpose she has in view. When you buy a piece of property you consider the neighborhood as well as the ground. Just so when you buy advertising you must find out how much of the circulation you can use. You must judge the neighborhoods where your copy will be read, with the same thoughtfulness that you devoted to selecting the spot where your goods are sold.

A dealer in precious stones would be foolish to open up in a poor neighborhood, and equally short-sighted, to tell about his jewelry in a newspaper, largely distributed there. Out of a thousand men and women who might see what he had to say not ten of them could afford to buy his goods. These thousand readers would be mass without muscle. He could make them willing to do business with him, but their incomes wouldn't let them become customers.

One of the greatest mistakes in publicity is to drop your lines where the fish can't take your bait.

Circulation is, as you see, a very interesting subject, but very few people know anything about it. It would surprise you to know that this ignorance often extends to the business offices of newspapers. I have known publishers to continually mistake the class of their readers and have met hundreds of them who had the most fantastic ideas upon the figures of their circulation.

While I would not be so harsh as to accuse them of anything more than being mistaken, none the less their tendency to infect others with this misinformation renders it extremely advisable for you to become a member of the Missouri society—and "be shown." (Copyright.)

Do you attend church or Sunday school? If not, its time you were brushing up and getting out your Master's business.
We have several churches with Sunday schools located in our district. Make a selection of your choice and be on hands next Sunday.

We hope that good old Santa will read the letters of the dear little boys and girls in this issue and remember them in his gifts. Also, we hope he will remember the poor children of the town and fill those stockings to the brim full.

The good roads meeting was poor in attendance, but the few present were the jolliest set of millionaires you ever saw and they are men who are not going to stop until they have the good roads.

A Horse Story.

Charles Meyer, one of the prominent members of the "High Jinks" company, that comes to the Vendome December 11, tells a story of a farmer who was having trouble with his horse.

It would start, walk twenty yards or so then stop for a few seconds, and start again, to repeat the performance. After watching this exhibition for some time a friend overtook the farmer during one of the horse's long waits. "What's the matter? Is it lame?" he asked.

"Not as I knows," replied the farmer, crossly.

"Then what's wrong with it?"
"Oh, he's so dashed feared I'll say 'Whoa,' and he won't hear me," replied the farmer, "that he stops every now and then to listen."

Gap.

Mr. Ernest Stepp, of McMinnville, was here one day last week delivering tombstones and set up a pair at the grave of the late, J. W. Campbell.

Oris Myers, Jr., and family spent a portion of last week with the family of Oris Myers, Sr.

John Campbell and Bill Jones walked from Sweeten Hill to the Gap one day of the big snow this week without a gun and killed five squirrels, but Bill was given out when they reached the Gap.

Bill Jones, of Coalmont, is spending a few days with John Campbell.

Tom Keethler has returned from a week's stay at Nashville.

We have about a four inch snow on the ground here.
